(c) The policy of Government is based on the provisions of Mysore Service Regulations. Extracts from which are reproduced as follows :—

An Officer in Superior Service, who has attained the age of 55 years, may be required to retire, unless Government considers him efficient and permits him to remain in the service.

It is trusted that the Heads of Departments will always be disposed to extend to this rule a very liberal interpretation and that the State may, in no case, be deprived of the valuable experience of really efficient officers by the untimely exercise of the powers of compulsory retirement on pension. Heads of Departments are authorised to presume, at their discretion, that an officer is inefficient at 55 years of age conditionally, and at 60 years of age absolutely, yet the whole tenor of the rules is that such presumption shall be exercised with careful consideration, both for the individual who would suffer by being deprived of his appointment while capable of discharging his duties, and for the finance of the country, which would suffer where officers, still efficient, prematurely thrown upon the pension list.
